Author: Shantdas Manandhar

The ladybird is an insect with lots of black spots.
Many, many black spots.

It's not a butterfly.
It's a different insect.

It's not an insect with flat wings.
It's an insect with round wings.

It's not a big insect.
It's a small insect.

It has spots which are equal in shape and size. It has a red body with black spots.

Ladybird, how did you get spots all over your body?

Did you get them yourself?

Can you give me one?

I want a spot.

Not many spots, just one.

One red spot to put on my forehead to be like a ladybird.

Match the following :

Ladybird

Butterfly

Flatwinged insect

Blackspot

Redspot
